

WHEN BESSIE DIED.

When Bessie died—
We braided her fair hair and tied It just as her own little hands Had fastened back the silken strands A hundred times, the pale blue bit Of ribbon woven into it,
That she had worn with childish pride, Smoothed down the little bow, and cried—
When Bessie died.

When Bessie died—
We drew the window blinds aside,
And as the morning in the room Burst like a June rose into bloom, Our hearts were very, very sad—We thought all gone that made life glad—
When Bessie died.

When Bessie died—
We prayed and prayed, unsatisfied, And God looked back at us and smiled In the form of our dear child; She laughing back against his love The kisses we had no more of;
For they to us were now denied—
When Bessie died.

Our Bessie died—

SAMPLE PROPOSALS.

In case the readers are interested in knowing how proposals are actually made, here is a lot of stories told by the women themselves. Several men have sent stories of how and when they asked the decisive question, but it will doubtless be admitted that the stories should continue to come from the women. Women who desire to contribute true stories to the realistic column, the circumstances under which the question was put and the talk that passed.

Proposal No. 1.
In this case I am Annie and he is Arthur. We went together only a short time; but in that time Arthur took me everywhere, and every time he came to see me he had some amusement on hand, and, as it was summer, not a picnic escaped us. On this evening we had nothing to do except to go for a walk, and we went.

The evening was lovely, and the sky filled with stars. Arthur asked me if I had ever counted stars. I did not know what he meant.

He then asked: "Annie, did you ever count nine stars in nine nights?" I said I had not.

"Well, then, start this evening, and don't miss an evening, for if you do you'll have to start all over again."

I wondered awhile and then asked why, but all the satisfaction I got was: "Oh, nothing, only when you are through let me know—that's all."

So I commenced, and the evening after I had finished counting my stars I told Arthur about it. He laughed and said: "Shake hands on that." We shook hands, and then he said: "Annie, you and I will be married, because I am the first man you shook hands with after counting nine stars in nine nights without missing one night; so, then, what do you say?" he asked, eagerly, as he held my hand. I answered: "How do you know?" and he said he would have no one else, and he didn't; for, when two years after (I was of age), in place of a wedding there was a funeral, and, as I got no other proposal, I am still unmarried, though five years have passed. I have met many, but none that I loved as I did Arthur.

Proposal No. 2.
The first proposal I ever received was from an old playmate of mine. I had just returned from school, and he and I were together for the first time. When I invited him to call that afternoon, he told me he had something important to tell me. When he came that evening I waited for his important "something," but he did not mention it.

At last, about 12 o'clock, we heard my father and mother coming up the long walk, and Burt said, hurriedly: "Ethel, the matter I came to see about was this—I love you!"

"Perhaps you can't answer me yet," he added, as he noticed that I was rather taken back by this business-like proposal, but I answered that I could decide right away. I accepted him, just as the folks came into the hall. I drove him almost to madness during our short engagement, and finally I gave back his ring.

Proposal No. 3.
He had been a widower nearly two years. After his wife's death his sister Sarah took care of the house and the motherless little boy.

One pleasant Sabbath morning, I went to church not far away. It was the first time that I had left my home since my mother's death, four weeks before. I was feeling very sad that morning as I was walking to church. I thought I would apply to some one of the farmers to hire as a girl of all work, and rent my house and few acres that I then possessed. On going home, as I passed the churchyard gate into the road, it just happened (as I then thought) that Charley got ready to leave at the same time. As our homes were in the same direction, I didn't think it strange that we should go together. As we were nearing my gate, he said: "Hannah, you must be very lonely now?"

I said: "Yes, very, very lonely and sad."

He replied: "Don't be sad. How would you like to come and live with me?"

"Nothing would suit me any better," I replied. His remarks after that I can't quite remember. Finally I said: "I didn't know you meant that." But I invited him in, and not once thought of dinner till he made the remark that he had eaten breakfast at six o'clock that morning. Perhaps his dinner at home was a long time waiting for him. As you know, widowers don't approve of long engagements, and he said Sarah was anxious to go home, and wanted me to be ready in two weeks. So we had much to talk about. Since then the most cruel thing he ever said to me was to tell how ready I was to accept him.

Proposal No. 4.
It happened last summer. We had known each other, as friends, ever since childhood (Tom is several years my senior). Tom was gone on a trip, and when away wrote me a letter, which also contained a proposal. Before leaving he had made me promise to answer his letter "in the same tone in which his was written." Of course, I understood it all as a joke, and did as I had promised. When he returned from the trip he playfully asked me if I meant what I wrote. I, of course, replied "that I meant it as much as he meant what he wrote." Several weeks later we took a ride to the park. After a great deal of talking Tom got "spooky," and, well—we are going to wait several years, for we both have ambitions to fulfill before being joined for life.

Not a soul but Tom and I knows of this agreement, and we pride ourselves upon our ability to hide our real feelings.

Proposal No. 5.
James was night foreman and I was a compositor on a local morning daily in a thriving Wisconsin town. He had never shown much preference for me over the other lady compositors in the office. After work, in the small hours of the morning, the male contingent used to see the girls to their respective homes. One morning after "30" was in the other girls hurried through correcting their proofs, while I remained struggling over a galley which the night editor had said was awfully "dirty." James was finishing making up the "forms" and was waiting for my "galley." I finished correcting the proof and turned the galley over to him; in a few minutes the type was in the form and the form was locked up. James and I were alone in the composing-room. When he lifted the "form" from the "stone" it in some manner slipped from his hands and fell with a crash to the floor. Two columns of "ads." were "piled." Luckily the rest could be "picked up." James was to have taken me home, but I stayed to help him reset the type. We stooped down to gather the confused mass up and we went.

The evening was lovely, and the sky filled with stars. Arthur asked me if I had ever counted stars. I did not know what he meant.

He then asked: "Annie, did you ever count nine stars in nine nights?" I said I had not.

That complete despondency or utter despair of living which comes over women who suffer from the peculiar weakness of their sex, is one of the most horrible symptoms. The entire nervous system and the mind are so affected that there seems to be nothing in life worth living for. A woman's whole outlook upon life is darkened by any derangement of the delicate organism which gives her her womanhood.

Some women hardly realize that this is the one and only cause of all their misery. Doctors frequently treat them for neuralgia or dyspepsia or insomnia. Beside this, modest women shrink from the ordeal of examinations and local treatment which doctors are sure to insist upon.

There is no need of these difficulties; there is no need of enduring this misery and unhappiness. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the complaints of the feminine organism completely and permanently. It is the most perfect remedy ever devised for that purpose. It is the only medicine for women's troubles invented by a regularly graduated physician, a skilled and scientific expert who has spent a lifetime in studying this special class of diseases.

Mrs. Bessie McPherson, of No. 38 South Main Street, Providence, R. I., writes: "If I could only say one little word to my sisters who are suffering each day from the ailments which I suffered from for years. My afflictions were female weakness, inflammation and weak back. The trouble grew so much worse that I could not bear the weight of my pet cat on my lap. I grew despondent, wishing for death. I only lived and suffered, but the divine God would me for a better purpose, and if I can only be the means of bringing light and driving sorrow away from one poor mortal, by telling them of that most wonderful remedy, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—my time has been well spent. I took only a few bottles and was completely cured. I hope this will meet the eyes of some poor despondent sister, and cause her to cheer up."

THE DEMOCRATS.

How They Voted at the Judicial Conventions Thursday.

The Democrats were still holding a judicial convention last evening when the Republican went to press. They went at it as though they were going to win.

First they nominated Judge W. E. Nelson of Macon county for supreme judge in the Third district to go against Judge J. M. Wilkin, the Republican nominee.

The vote for circuit judges in the new Sixth district was as follows:

Buckingham—Champaign, 12; DeWitt, 6; Platt, 5; Macon, 12; Douglas, 5; Moutrie, 5; total 45.

Cunningham—Champaign, 12; DeWitt, 6; Platt, 5; Macon, 12; Moultrie, 5; total, 40.

Pedro—Champaign, 5; Macon, 11; Douglas, 5; Moultrie, 5; total, 26.

Reed—Champaign, 7; DeWitt, 6; Platt, 5; Macon, 1; Douglas, 5, total 24.

Messrs. Buckingham, Cunningham and Pedro having received the highest votes were declared the nominees and were afterwards chosen by acclamation.

The vote for nominees in the old Fourth district deemed necessary that candidates may be had in case the new law is annulled, was as follows:

Buckingham—Champaign, 9; Coles, 1; Douglas, 5; Edgar, 9; Macon, 12; Moutrie, 5; Vermillion, 14; total 64.

Tilton—Champaign, 12; Douglas, 5; Edgar, 9; Macon, 12; Moultrie, 5; Ver-million, 14; total 57.

Cunningham—Champaign, 12; Coles,

A Forger in Jail

The young man known in Decatur as Ely Tobill and Ernest Peterson, alias Melvin, wanted since last December for forgery in getting $61.38 at Millikin & Co.'s bank on a check, alleged to have been signed by Wilson & Chapman of Casper station, is now behind the bars in the Macon county jail. He was brought to Decatur last night by Deputy Sheriff Holmes, who at the request of Marshall Mason, had gone to Marshall, Clark county, Illinois, after the forger. Tobill will have his trial in June and will go to the penitentiary for a term of years.
Shortly after the forgery was committed Marshall Mason located Tobill at Terre Haute and he was about to go after him when he learned that the Clark county sheriff had stepped in ahead of him. To-bill was wanted in Clark county for personating an express company official but at the trial he managed to escape conviction. Some years ago Tobill was convicted on a charge of burglary and sent to the penitentiary.

PHELAN THE FAVORITE.

The Council and Mayor-Elect Taylor Have Another Conference.

There was another conference of the members of the city council and Mayor-elect Taylor last night on the question of selecting a competent man to serve as city engineer. This is the place it has been deemed hard to fill, or rather most difficult for the aldermen to agree upon for confirmation. The preference of the aldermen was expressed last night and John Phelan, son of Michael Phelan, was the winner, securing eight of the fourteen aldermen to vote for him.

The Ballots.

There were three ballots taken for engineer with Aldermen Mathies and Montgomery as tellers:

Dickerson, of Danville, 5.

Phelan of Decatur, 4.

Judd of Peoria, 4.

Ricard of Springfield, 1.

Ricard's name was then dropped and a second ballot was taken, which resulted as follows:

Dickerson, 5.

Phelan, 5.

Judd, 3.

Mr. Judd's name was then dropped and the third and final ballot taken with the following result:

Phelan, 8.

Dickerson, 6.

The qualifications of Mr. Phelan will be investigated by Mr. Taylor, Aldermen Montgomery and Young. They will meet Saturday evening for that purpose. The friends of Mr. Phelan say that he is thoroughly competent.

TOWN BOARD MEETING.

Assessor Foster and His Assistants—The Clerk's Salary.

At the meeting of the town board for Decatur township held Thursday afternoon, W. W. Foster, assessor, submitted to the board the following appointments as assistants: T. J. Fleming, Frank M.
Watkins, Bud Florey and W. H. Foster; as clerks, Miss Leah Foster, Miss Grace Foster. The salary allowance under the law is $2.50 per day. One year Mr. Watkins served as assessor and Mr. Florey was an assistant under Mr. Keeler. Assessor Foster will begin work on May 1, and complete the assessment as rapidly as possible.

The salary of Town Clerk Cope was fixed at $1.50 per day for each day employed. Nearly every day in the year the clerk is called upon to act for the township in some capacity. One year the salary was fixed at $600.

All Going to Galesburg.

the names of the delegates from Dunham Post:

Cloyce, J. A. F. King, Cyrus Imboden, Hiram Johnson, K. Harwood and F. J.
Blaine.

Thursday evening.

T. B. Shoff of the Danville Press, was feeling pretty good yesterday afternoon when he left for home. He was the only delegate present at the Democratic judicial convention from Vermillion county and single handed he so manipulated things that he landed his man on the judicial ticket. His favorite was George R.
Tilton of Danville, who if the new apportionment stands will be named by the Democrats in the new Fifth circuit and Tom desired to have Tilton named at Decatur so that he would have a better show of success at Peoria.

Nicholas Lounsbury has filed in the circuit court a bill for divorce from Dollah Lounsbury. He says they were married Oct. 10, 1889. He says she has been discontented and neglectful and in the first year of their marriage deserted him for nine months. She returned, but since then at intervals has refused to live with him. On Feb. 26, 1896, she moved from his home to that of one of her daughters and has since refused to live with him.
He has often asked her to return.

MENTAL EFFECTS.

A Healing Test for the Mind.

There are a number of commendable things taught by so called mind healers.
For instance, "Mind is the real being, the real man, which moves the arms, legs, eyes, etc., as machines which do its will." Body is made up entirely of what comes from the ground and air. A peculiar compound of earth and water, delicately and most deftly arranged to be sure, but simple earth and water, nevertheless, without any force, intelligence or motion in it, except as it is acted upon by the living mind.

There seems to be two minds to each body, or two selves, one which runs the so called automatic members, stomach, heart, bowels, etc., and the other which conducts the movements of the outer members, arms, etc.

It is a curious psychological fact that when one is slightly ailing, a new line of thought will quickly affect the body favorably and particularly if that mental trend run somewhat as follows: "I am not body."

"My real self is unseen and is mind or spirit which is the same as life. Body being dead material cannot complain to me except as I sensitize it and permit the complaints." If a person can bring himself to so thoroughly believe this without a shadow of doubt, a most curious and healing effect is quickly felt in the body.

Many people have not a well enough trained mind to command just what it shall or shall not do, but where the mind is well in hand, so to speak, the result of such mental exercise is marked and cannot be forgotten.

We write the above knowing that it will reach the eye of some honest searcher after some of the new laws which are lately coming to be known of man, and to say that while on the subject of healthful living, it should not be forgotten that good nourishing food and drink are necessary and the unnatural habits are better left off than along to. If the reader has trouble with coffee and has never used the food drink, Postum Cereal, it will well repay the trial.

There is but one genuine original Postum Cereal coffee, with a multitude of imitations offered as "just as good."

The President's speech.

The Chicago Tribune: During the recent national campaign Major McKinley made an enviable and wide spread reputation for clearness, succinctness, and eloquence of statement in the numerous addresses which he delivered at his Canton home to visiting delegations of his own party. On Tuesday President McKinley increased that reputation in the address upon the character and services of General Grant which he delivered to the whole country before hundreds of thousands of spectators and amid impressive ceremonial scenes at the dedication of the memorial to the great commander.

The president himself is a soldier and spoke with the brevity, earnestness, modesty and dignity of the soldier. The nature of the occasion, the impressive character of the surroundings, and the spectacle of the vast crowd might naturally have tempted a speaker to overdo in what he had to say and to indulge in long and dizzy flights of rhetoric, but they failed to have any such influence on the president.
 His address, filling a bare newspaper half column, was couched in plain, simple, modest language, delivered with quiet dignity, emphasized by the nature of the occasion.

The president's address was such as General Grant himself would have desired from one of his comrades, and nothing which that comrade said is truer than that "we love him all the more for his home life and homely virtues," for the unique distinction of his individuality, his bearing and speech, his simple ways, and his true and uncompromising Americanism, which will make his name "stand for all time as the embodiment of liberty, loyalty and national unity."

In his brief presentation of the traits of General Grant the president called attention to one fact not often enough considered—namely: "The veteran leaders of the blue and gray here meet not only to honor the name of the departed Grant, but to testify to the living reality of a national spirit which has triumphed over the differences of the past and transcended the limitations of sectional lines"—a sentiment which was illustrated by the impressive spectacle of the confederate veterans, who placed a wreath with crossed swords upon the bier and which the president further emphasized by praying God to speed its completion as "the nation's greatest glory." The president's most impressive statement, and one of the most succinct characterizations of General Grant which have yet been made, is contained in the words: "A great life never dies. Great deeds are imperishable; great names immortal. General Grant's services and character will continue undiminished in influence and advance in the estimation of mankind so long as liberty remains the cornerstone of free government and integrity of life the guaranty of good citizenship." The whole address indeed was an ideal one.
 It fitted the occasion, but more than all it was in keeping with the character of the great commander.

A resolution was introduced in the senate Thursday looking toward opening an inquiry into the causes of the recent flood and especially to inquire as to whether the destruction of our forests have contributed to it in any way. It is said that since Spain has destroyed her forests springs and streams have appeared and agriculture has very largely declined. It is not unreasonable that in the temperate zones the forest may be the power which holds the waters in check and causes the regularity of the seasons.

The necessity for buying gold from Europe only to have it sent back again passed with the defeat of the free silverites at the recent election. Gold is accumulating in the treasury day by day and all because every dollar in circulation in this country has the same purchasing power which would not be true under a free coinage law, fixing the ratio at 16 to 1.

Since the people of Greece have changed their minds and a spirit of revolution has set in that promises to sweep King George from the throne and Constantine the Kaiser's brother-in-law, from the succesion the Kaiser has somewhat modified his tone toward Greece, but it is too late for him to cure the ills that he more than any other one ruler brought upon Greece.

Those gentlemen who are urging dangerous legislation in Springfield seem determined to repeal the present libel law.
 Their interest in this repeal is apparent.
 They hope to stop the liberty press is taking with their names and their motives in advocating dangerous and bad legislation.

The Greeks seem to have absolutely failed in the field except as to two commands that were not under the immediate direction of Prince Constantine and the only logical theory why the Greeks have failed utterly to give a good account of themselves on the field is that the prince is an utter failure as a commander.

"Piling up wrath against the day of wrath" is a text the great powers might study with profit.

 o'clock and at its conclusion the hall will Vredenburg, Jr., of Springfield.

MARSHALL FIELD WILL MARRY.

A Report that He is Engaged to the Widow of Gen. Sheridan.

Chicago, April 30.—The Daily News of last night said:

It is common talk in Chicago society circles that Mr. Marshall Field is engaged to the widow of the late General Philip H. Sheridan and that the wedding will take place in the near future.

Mr. Field reached Chicago yesterday but declined to see a reporter who called for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not the story of his engagement was true.

Mrs. Sheridan was formerly Miss Rocker, daughter of General Rucker of the regular army, and was married to General Sheridan in this city about twenty years ago. She has three children, twin boys, aged about 18, and a daughter.
 Since the death of her husband Mrs. Sheridan has resided in Washington. She is a devoted Catholic and her children are being educated in schools of that faith.

Mr. Field has been a widower for about a year. He has two children, Marshall Field, Jr., who resides on Prairie avenue, and Mrs. Arthur Tee, who has since her marriage resided at Leamington, England.

BODIES FOUND.

The Bodies of Two Infants Were Found Recently Decomposed Near Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 30.—A box containing the bodies of two infants were found today in a deserted quarry near Bellevue and Pennsylvania avenue.
 The box was securely fastened. "Membership of Canton, Ohio, Young Men's Christian Association" was tacked on the lid. The bodies were evidently dead several days. Lime was used to hasten decomposition.

Supposed Murder and Suicide.

Bidford, Me., April 30.—John L. Lane, wife and child, were found dead at Monny Eagle near here this morning. All had been shot. It is supposed to be a double murder and suicide.

Something About the Flathead Indians of British Columbia.

The Flathead Indians of British Columbia afford an extensive field for character study, and the writer having lived among them a number of years has had unlimited opportunities for noting their peculiarities. Friendly contact with this people shows them to be of an entirely different disposition from their northwestern brothers, and distinct as a tribe. They receive no help from the government, for the reason that they are well able to sustain themselves by securing employment at numerous occupations open to them.

Independence is stamped upon their countenances and their talent consists in carving, canoe building and kindred employments. Fishing and hop picking are the principal industries in which they are employed during the summer.
 While in winter, felling timber and hunting give ample compensation for a comfortable living. Canoes are their means of transportation, and their skill in manipulating the paddle is often made manifest during town exhibitions, in which this sport is a prominent feature. Great numbers of these ingenious Indians live along the trend of the Frazer river, which winds its way through dark canyons, amid towering mountains, where in proximity to the waters turbulently falling over rocks they live in a state of felicity, fishing and hunting.

The ritual of the Roman Catholic church attracts many of them, and schools of this denomination are scattered about the province. Industrial schools also are opened for their special benefit, and many of the youthful Indians avail themselves of this invaluable instruction.

Indian brass bands have been organized at different stations, and it is amazing to note their rapid acquisition of skill in the management of the different musical instruments, considering that they were comparative strangers to anything in this line such a short time ago, and now it is quite a common sight to observe those bands playing on occasions of festivities in the cities.

They are great fish eaters, and their mild temperament is attributed to the effect of this diet, which is the chief food of every meal, and cooked by means of smoking, giving it an appealing taste. At the end of the fishing season those who receive their entire summer's earnings in bulk leave at once for the city, there to transform the money into merchandise, for they are far from being money accumulators, and have a decided liking for receiving its worth in actual goods.

The clothes the Flathead Indian wears are of his own selection, for the people imitate the whites in regard to dress in so far that some wear derby hats, causing an amusing spectacle to a visiting stranger, for the reason that their peculiar, flat-shaped heads compel them to wear these hats with the peaks overlapping the ears.

The women are hard workers and are frequently seen walking through the cities burdened with a "pack" sufficiently heavy for a strong man to carry; but fastened as it is to their backs, they evince no sign of weariness.
 While in winter they are seen walking along with characteristic gait in their bare feet, over ice and snow, showing no apparent discomfort for the exposure.
 The older women are not remarkable for their beauty, but are generally in good health, sickness being infrequent among them.—Detroit Free Press.

THE FIRST LIGHTHOUSES.

They Were an Outgrowth of the Den-con Fires on Headlands.

When ships are sailing upon the ocean the lights of heaven are their guides. Even in the dark ages, when the compass and sextant were unknown instruments, the seemingly motionless pole-star hung like a beacon light in the northern heaven, and the rising and setting of the sun and stars distinguished the east from the west. When, however, ships come near the land the lights of heaven are not sufficient safety to guide them. Rocks lie in their paths unseen in the night; reefs and shoals spread under the water; while unsuspecting currents sweep the frail craft all blindly upon these dangers.

Nevertheless, ships were sailed along dangerous coasts for centuries before a plain system of marking dangerous places were invented. The early mariners were bold and reckless rovers, more than half pirates, who seldom owned a rod of the coast along which they sailed, and could not have established lights and landmarks on them had they cared to do so. The rude beginning, then, of a system of lighthouses was when the merchants with whom the reckless mariners traded in those dark ages built beacons near the harbor's mouth to guide the ships into port by day, and lighted fires for their guide-ance at night. As such a harbor-guide had to be a sure landmark in the daytime and a light by night, it soon took a settled shape—a tower on which could be built a fire, and such a tower was usually built of stone.

This method of guiding ships into the ports which they sought was scarcely established before human wickedness used it as a means for their destruction.
 Bands of robbers, or, as they came to be called, "wreckers," would hide themselves somewhere near the haven sought by a richly laden vessel, and, after overpowering the fire-keepers, would extinguish the beacon fire on the night on which the ship was expected. Then they would light another fire near some treacherous reef. The mariner, sailing boldly toward the false light, would dash his vessel to destruction on the reef, whereupon the robber band would plunder the wreck and make off with their booty.—Lieut. John M. Elliott, U.
 S. N., in St. Nicholas.

TALL MEN ARE SHY.

Their Reticence Never Shared by the Little Men.

Two French physicians who have been making investigations have come forward with a general denunciation of tall men as no good. They instance the giants of the world, who have been proverbially dull and men of gloomy disposition, and say that the chances are against phenomenally tall men or even very tall men of being very bright.

There should, however, be a careful distinction drawn between tall men and giants. Giantism has been demonstrated to be a disease. The victims suffer from a malady which produces an enlargement of the joints and this, more than any other growth of the bones, produces their extraordinary height. But men within certain limits grow tall without suffering decreased or absorbed mentality. It will not do to denounce the tall man when the world has seen so many examples of his being able to hold his own.

The real reason why tall men do not come to the front oftener is that they are as modest as they are extended. Little men usually bustle about to such an extent that people believe that they make up in width of views what they lack in stature. In their absorbing ambition not to be overlooked they simply overdo the thing and make those whose command of horizon is larger believe that they must get out of the way or the little fellow will run over them. The tall man is always looking down on some one, but if anyone believes that it is a comfortable situation he should get himself into it for once and discover how unpleasant it is to carry on conversation with the assistance of a telephone. It is this excruciating experience that makes the tall man, as a rule, reticent. His reticence is mistaken for pride, pride is believed to be the evidence of doubt of his own powers, doubt proves deficiency. Deficiency in the tall man can arise from only one thing—development of the body at the expense of the brain and nervous system. Hence the short man easily arrives at the decision that the tall man is a misfit and that he is the only perfect being going. Perfection being accorded him he might easily conquer the world, but he always spoils his chances by marrying a tall woman, who holds him back. This is the only reason why the men under five feet six have not already exterminated those over five feet nine.—N. Y. Herald.
